Keeping History Alive....One Model At A Time

D-Day Demo For The Home Schoolers!

By: Rocky Sink

On Wednesday, March 27th, several members of the club helped with a demo at the D-Day Memorial that was planned for the home schooled kids. The D-Day is always having events throughout the year and this time the event had groups and organizations come in and do demo's and displays promoting their group for the home schooled kids around. We were invited down for this event and enjoyed being able to show off model building to the kids of all ages. In fact there were some kids who said they actually build model cars and armor. In all it was a great day for the club even if it did rain most of the day that moved all activities inside for everyone.

Please bring a chair if possible in case we have a good number of members. The last couple demo's we have had a great turn out and hoping we do this time as well. A reminder will be sent out closer to the date.

Club Theme Build Announced !

The next theme award for the club, and first of the year, is "Anything Named After An Animal" and will be due at the June Business Meeting. It can be armor, planes, ships, cars, animals (lol), figures, sci-fi and, well you get the drift. So do your research and find that odd model you may have named after a animal and get busy on it!

Another Great Model Classic By IPMS NOVA:

By: Rocky Sink

Once again the members of IPMS Northern Virginia put on a great Model Classic. Several members of the the club headed to Fairfax, Virginia on Saturday, April 13th, to attend the annual show. As always the day started with breakfast at Cracker Barrel in Staunton before heading on to the show. The show has always been held at Fairfax high school and the contest and some of the vendors are in the cafeteria while the other vendors are set up outside in the hallways of the school. I was unable to get a model count but it appeared to be close to the average for the show with a good mix of planes, ships, auto, figures, sci-fi and miscellaneous. I was lucky enough to not only have three place, two first's and a second, but also received the Best Automotive award. Congrats to the members of IPMS Northern Virginia for another great show!
